MELBOURNE SYMPOSIUM

The Performing Wellness Symposium held in Melbourne in December received a lot of interest and positive response from attendees. You can download the abstracts of the papers presented at the symposium here.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

It is with great pleasure that I write my first President’s report for the ASPAH newsletter as the incoming ASPAH president. The ASPAH AGM was held on Saturday the 10th of December in conjunction with the Performing Wellness symposium hosted by the University of Melbourne. The AGM saw the completion the terms of past president Cate Madill, past secretary Judy Nolan and executive committee members Karen Lonsdale and Laura Crocco. The executive committee would like to extended our thanks for the hard work of these outgoing committee members in the governance, administration and promotion of ASPAH. We are also very fortunate to have Dr Margaret Osborne return to the ASPAH executive committee, welcome Margaret! I am pleased to announce the 2017 ASPAH executive committee as; Luke Hopper (President), David Pierce (Vice-President), Clifton Chan (Treasurer), Paul Duff (Secretary), Gene Moyle, Aislinn Sharp, Mark Seton and Margaret Osborne. The committee still has open vacancies if you would like to nominate for a position. 2016 marked the 10th birthday of ASPAH as the society continues to serve as the peak body for the promotion of holistic healthcare performing artists in the Australia. The past year saw the launch of the new ASPAH website, the first ASPAH webinars, new membership options and the increased exposure and connection of ASPAH with the community through social media. 2017 presents as an exciting opportunity to build on the initiatives of 2016, through my term as president I hope to establish and support more frequent state chapter meetings as well as engaging the ASPAH membership in the development of position statements and community involvement. We will also continue the promotion of ASPAH through social media and soon announce the 2017 webinar schedule.

The Show Must Go On is a "social documentary that shines a light on the mental health issues in the Australian entertainment industry" due to air in 2017. Featuring the voices of people in the industry itself, including an interview with an ASPAH member, this seems like a promising project that could highlight these issues for the general public and start some overdue conversations within the performing arts and JOIN THE ASPAH COMMITTEE!

ASPAH is led by a national executive committee of up to 11 individuals who are passionate about the importance of high-quality healthcare for performing artists. The committee includes healthcare professionals, pedagogues, researchers and performing artists.

There are currently casual vacancies on the committee. If you have time, energy, knowledge and skills that you feel would be of value to the committee, please send an expression of interest to secretary@aspah.org.au

Performing Arts Healthcare Blog
